SPECIAL EXCURSION

A Digital Photography Field Trip

Images for your presentations have to come from somewhere

RIKK FLOHR

A short vehicle ride from conference central is a wealth of source material for your PowerPoint presentations. Fifteen conference photographers will escape to hone their photo-taking skills. Regardless of the capabilities of the camera, there are many basic techniques you can use to ensure the images you capture in the field are workable at your desk. After all, the better your photo, the less time you will spend in your image editor, and the more time you can spend admiring your work. Topics to include:

- Dissecting the light and conditions
- Scrutiny and viewfinder
- Location strategies
- Camera settings to ensure you get the shot
- Making your pictures unique

This session is limited to 15 interested digital camera owners who signed up in advance. However any photographer will find value in the handout published here.
