

SUNDAY ♦ 12:30pm
OPTIONAL CRASH COURSE

PowerPoint from the Ground Up

For those suffering from 15 minuteitis

Sunday

12:30pm

RICK ALTMAN

PowerPoint is not hard to learn at all. At least that is the conclusion you would draw from most users. Many will tell you that they learned it in less than an hour, some in as few as 15 minutes. That, of course, is the problem: Many PowerPoint users have not taken the time to learn the program's foundation and take advantage of the tools designed to allow for efficient and more rewarding work. This course takes you back to the fundamentals that you probably did not take the time to learn initially. This interactive course will cover:

- Content creation and consistency
- Animation and automation
- Backgrounds
- The magic of the masters

This class is not just for beginners, although beginners will benefit greatly from it. It is also for those who glossed over the fundamentals the first time they learned the program. No glossing allowed during this course!

