

WEDNESDAY ♦ 11:15am
TOOLS & TECHNIQUES

Creating the Perfect Interface

Training PowerPoint's interface to read your mind

RICK ALTMAN

How great it would be if software knew exactly where to place every command, so you could have instant access to it whenever you wanted. Versions 2003 and 2007 are ready when you are for intuitive customization, each according to its own paradigm. Performing interface rearrangement was once the domain of programmers, but now ambitious users can participate:

- Don't like what's on the toolbar? Change it.
- Create custom workspaces for multiple projects or users
- Share your perfect interface
- Who says you can't assign keystrokes?

This seminar is for advanced users who have developed a strong sense of which commands they use all the time and which deserve better access.

Wednesday

11:15am

