Five Faves From the Host

His favorite tips and tricks

RICK ALTMAN

If you are like most people, you learned PowerPoint in about 30 minutes. You might have gone on to become quite proficient with the tools you know, but you probably set your base of usage from a limited skillset. It is almost scary how much there is to learn when you stretch the bounds just a bit past what you learned in your first 30 minutes. That is where this session will take you — just past your horizon, with the following topics:

- Create the interface of your dreams.
- Learn to go non-linear.
- Be better with bullets.
- Print what?? Change the default and save your sanity.
- What's your name? Version 2007 layouts are wonderful, but need one important tweak.

This session is for users of all versions who feel there is a whole world of proficiency out there just behind their horizons.
